

After Setting Up Your Recipe Collections

Okay, so let's say you are looking at one of my recipes and you want to add the recipe to your collection from the recipe page. So all you do is come down to the recipe card, that's this red frame here that contains my recipe video and the actual recipe where you can print, and you're going to click "add to collection".

It'll ask you what collection you want to add to, in this case, we'll add it to that week one collection we've been talking about. And then you can decide what day you want to add it to. We'll go ahead and add it to Tuesday.

Now remember this is all already been set up on the back end to have these choices. And in this case, we're going to add that to lunch. And you can then go to collections straight from the recipe card to see where you've added that. Just click into week one, and you can see it's been added here for you, and you can increase the yield or decrease and everything, that I've shown you in previous videos. So that makes a pretty easy!
